FIFTIETH YEAR. NUMBER 222

CIRCLEVILLE, OHIO, THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 21, 1933

THREE CENTS

The Strain of the Presidency

WASHINGTON—The telegrams sent by President Roosevelt notifying former residents of the White House of the death of Ike Hoover emphasized the heavy mortality of our former presidents.

The faithful Ike had been a major domo of the White House under eight different presidents. But Roosevelt's telegram—except in the case of Herbert Hoover—went not to these presidents, but to:

Mrs. Grover Cleveland Preston, Mrs. Benjamin Harrison, Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, Mrs. William Howard Taft, Mrs. Woodrow Wilson and Mrs. Calvin Coolidge.

No Back Patting

President Roosevelt's night conference with leaders of the soft coal industry was no pat-me-on-the-back affair. F. D. R. did little smiling at the confab.

Without wasting time on rhetorical preliminaries, he bluntly informed the operators that he was fed up with endless code palavering, that they had caused more trouble than any other group, and that if they couldn't reach an agreement he was prepared to impose a code and take the issue of their resistance to the country.

"I'll give you exactly 24 hours," Roosevelt concluded.

The operators' answer was conciliatory.

"We think we can do it in that time, Mr. President," they spokesmen said, "but better give us 36 hours to be sure."

"You get 24 hours and that's all," F. D. R. said bluntly. He was angry, meant business. Had the operators showed fight, he was ready for them. He was prepared to promulgate a code, and throw it open to signature by those operators who were willing to co-operate. He expected Alabama, Western Kentucky regions, and other non-union southern operators to balk. But he had a Big Stick ready.

Merry-Go-Round

The urge for first hand observation was not the only reason for the European jaunt of Senator William Gibbs McAdoo and North Carolina's Senator Robert R. Reynolds. That was their public explanation. The real reason was the desire to escape the endless horde of job seekers. The two senators told friends before departing that as long as they stayed in the country there was no escape from clamorous applicants, that the only way they could obtain relief was to put a broad ocean between them. The code submitted by the American Hotel Association was a labor loop-hole big enough to drive through a herd of elephants.

It fixes maximum working hours for all hotel workers except watchmen, night clerks, and night auditors who are carefully excluded from all consideration under the code. Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt usually wears inexpensive jewelry, but occasionally with evening attire, she wears a magnificent string of diamonds. They are an inauguration present from her godmother, Mrs. Henry Parrish, at whose home she was married. The First Lady of the Land has received as gifts or bought enough quilts and bedspreads to equip a large hotel. Now, she is buying no more.

Over 250,000 dependent children in 44 states are being cared for in their own homes under Mothers' Aid Laws. John E. Nelson, Maine's lame-duck Republican Congressman, recently sustained a serious blow to his senatorial ambitions. A staunch voting dry while in the House, Nelson was arrested recently on a charge of driving while intoxicated. He was being groomed to oppose "Little Freddie" Hale, veteran Senator, at the next election.

OHIO SENATE VOTES NEW UTILITY TAXES

SURPRISE VOTE GAINS RESULTS

One Per Cent on Incomes Supported; Lobbyists' Efforts Fail

AID FOR SCHOOL

Prescription Liquor Also to Be Taxed

COLUMBUS, Sept. 21.—Changing the entire legislative picture, a 1 per cent utilities tax bill, passed by the state senate last night in a surprise move, caused a reopening today of the drive to raise money for state-aid schools before adjournment.

In an entirely unexpected action, the Haynes bill levying taxes on gas and telephone companies was taken away from the special taxation committee, approved by a vote of 19 to 9, and sent to the House, where it was expected to come up today.

With that as a starter, the Senate then prepared to vote this afternoon on the Yoder bill taxing prescription liquors 50 cents a pint.

WOULD BE ENOUGH

The liquor bill would raise $1,000,000 a year and the Haynes bill would produce $1,500,000 for a period of 18 months. Combined receipts of the two would bring in almost enough to operate the state-aid schools until Jan. 1, 1934.

Under the Gunsett school financing bill which the House passed last night and sent back to the Senate for concurrence in amendments. Demands for immediate adjournment continued, however, and there was a possibility that the tax bills would be lost in the rush. Adjournment sometime late today was predicted.

The dormant hope of levying new taxes to provide for the schools was awakened suddenly at last night's session after the House passed the Gunsett bill.

Braving the wrath of Governor George White, who had threatened a veto, the lower branch approved a section which provides that $3,000,000 shall be paid to the state-aid schools for the remainder of the year from the general revenue fund. The governor said he would veto this section unless new tax moneys were raised.

UTILITY BILL CALLED

Senator W. P. Haynes (D), of Coshocton, arose dramatically on the floor of the Senate and asked that his utilities bill, long buried in the special taxation committee, be called up for passage. The Senate agreed.

Lobbyists, who had considered the utilities bill dead, came scurrying to the chamber. Senator Paul Yoder (D) of Dayton, offered (Continued on Page Two)

HI SENIOR CLASS NAMES ASHBROOK

Yellowbud Youth Elected President; Helen Colville Vice President.

William Ashbrook, son of Mr. and Mrs. Price Ashbrook of Yellowbud, was elected president of the senior class of Circleville high school, Wednesday evening, when the members organized.

He was chosen over Harold Baughman, Thomas Hammon and Margaret Bower.

Other officers elected were, Helen Colville, vice president; Margie Brown, secretary; and Evelyn Purcell, treasurer.

Other candidates were, for vice president, Floyd Dunlap, Jr., and Emanuel Hundley; for secretary, Mary Kathryn Wolfe and for treasurer, Ned Hiltchcock, Lee Cook and Gaines Hill.

John K. Mason was president of last year's graduating class.

The seniors voted to sponsor a booth during the Pumpkin Show.

SLEEPING SICKNESS FATAL TO MINISTER

COLUMBUS, Sept. 21.—A victim of sleeping sickness, Rev. Elmer Crawford, 61, died in the isolation ward of University hospital here today while city health authorities took strict precautions against any spread of the dread disease.

A quarantine has been ordered placed on the minister's home by City Health Commissioner Nelson Dysart.

Death of the minister was the first reported in Columbus since the disease broke out in epidemic proportions in St. Louis recently.

Europe's Fairest

Acclaimed by leading artists as the most beautiful natural blonde in Europe, Miss Helen Vandromme, of Belgium, is in the United States with an eye to a film career. She is shown after her arrival at New York, where the gentlemen are famous for their preference for blondes.

SEVEN JAILED IN ABDUCTION

Police Believe O'Connell Kidnaping Cleared With Arrests.

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—Confident the abduction of John J. O'Connell, Jr., would be "a closed case" by nightfall police and federal agents today swept toward a clean-up of one of the nation's most notorious kidnapers, a series of murders and bank robberies, and the climax of a crushing blow delivered in the government's campaign of extermination of kidnap-racketeers.

O'Connell, scion of a politically powerful Albany family, was to view in the police lineup five men and two women seized in swift raids in the Bronx section here and Mt. Kisco, N. Y.

Authorities were confident O'Connell, abducted from in front of his home last July 7 and held captive three weeks until his family paid a $40,000 ransom, would clinch his partial identification of (Continued on Page Two)

Kansas Governor Airs Kidnap Plot

Says Members of Underhill Gang Sought Hostages; To Seek Paroles.

TOPEKA, Kans., Sept. 21.—A daring plot of the underworld to kidnap a member of Gov. Alfred Landon's family to hold as hostage for the parole of six convicts, said to be members of the notorious Wilbur Underhill gang, was revealed today by the governor.

A heavy guard was stationed over members of the official family and the governor cancelled all speaking engagements when the plot was revealed three weeks ago by a former inmate of the state prison at Lansing, who had been free only a few days.

An effort of officers to trap members of the kidnap ring at a farm house in Oklahoma failed, it was revealed. The members of the abduction gang apparently had learned their plan had reached official ears and had fled before officers reached the scene.

Add Three New Members to County Wheat Acreage Reduction Committee

The wheat acreage reduction set-up is progressing nicely today with a meeting scheduled for Washington and Circleville-twp tonight and for Saltercreek-twp Friday evening. After this week six more township meetings will complete the second visit of Guy Dowdy, emergency administrator, to each township.

At the conclusion of the meetings the permanent county committee will be organized with prospect that money for unused wheat land will be coming into Pickaway-co at an early date. If all farmers sign to reduce their wheat acreage a sum of approximately $130,000 will come into the county with the price per acre amounting to an average of $15.

Three townships have organized this week with the result that three new members of the county committee have been named. They include James F. Willis, Perry-twp; Paul Hay, Harrison-twp, and John Dunlap Jr., Deer creek-twp. Willis heads the Perry committee with Glen Grimes and Irvin Yeoman as members. Hay heads the Harrison committee with J. L. Baum and Dr. J. L. Spindler included and Dunlap is chief of the Deer creek committee which also has Ed C. Rector and John Myers as members.

One hundred and twenty-three persons signed the reduction papers at the meetings, 38 in Perry-twp, 31 in Harrison-twp and 54 in Deer creek-twp.

LEGION ELECTS BETTS LEADER

William Betts Jr. to Be Installed by Ebert October 18

PLAN MARDI GRAS

Shafer Named First Vice Commander

William Betts, Jr., E. Union-st., was elected commander of Howard Hall Post American Legion at a meeting Wednesday evening. He succeeds Orin W. Dreisbach, Pickaway-twp, who held the post during the past year.

Other officers named were: Reed Shafer, first vice commander; George Burns, second vice commander; Paul H. Betz, adjutant; Christian Schwarz, treasurer; Henry Mason, chaplain, and Ralph Nessel and Loren Dudson, sergeants-at-arms.

INSTALL ON OCT. 18

The new officers will be installed Wednesday evening, Oct. 18, with E. C. Ebert, a past commander, as the installing officer.

Plans are being made for a huge Armistice Day celebration, according to the newly-elected Commander. If plans work out, the Halloween celebration such as that held last year, and the Armistice program, will be merged with a Mardi Gras and street parade in the evening of Nov. 11. Civic clubs in the city will be asked to work with the Legion in sponsoring the event, Mr. Betts says.

First American Captured In War Seeks Ford Job

DETROIT, Sept. 21.—"Broke" and in search of work Sergeant Edgar M. Halyburton, one of America's premier World War heroes, has applied for one of the 5,000 jobs Henry Ford has promised to Wayne-co ex-service men.

Looking up at the latest arrival in the seemingly endless line of veterans parading past his desk, Rex Humphrey, Wayne-co American Legion commander, was startled to find himself staring into "the face that launched a thousand ships."

"All I want is a job and a chance to get back on my feet," said Halyburton, his famous fighting jaw set, and his eyes as grim as they were in 1917.

Sergeant Halyburton was the first Yank to be captured by the Germans in the World War. The tale of how he faced his vengeful captors and told them to "shoot and Be Damned," has become a classic of martial legends. A German photographer snapped a picture of him as he defied his captors' demands for information, and later the photograph was smuggled into the United States. It became the inspiration for Cyrus E. Dallin's famous statue used on posters advertising the Third Liberty loan.

EICHINGER ESTATE

Henry R. Eichinger, a son, has been named and qualified as administrator of the estate of his late father and mother, Rev. and Mrs. Charles H. Eichinger. He has furnished bond of $6,000.

Meeker Terwilliger is attorney for the estate and F. E. Barnhill, H. E. Colwell and C. S. Howard have been appointed appraisers.

Auto Men Await National Policy

BICYCLE STOLE, BOYS TO APPEAR

Roy Starkey, 11, and William Hill, 13, are to appear before juvenile authorities in connection with theft of a bicycle belonging to Ned Clifton, E. Ohio-st., from in front of Dodd's grocery, S. Scioto-st.

The bicycle has been recovered.

FINLEY TRIAL OPENS MONDAY

Charge Is Cutting With Intent To Wound; Grand Jury Meets Friday.

With a special session of the grand jury to report Friday to deliberate four cases, including a statutory charge against Earl Hill, colored, Judge J. W. Adkins announced Thursday that the trial jury is to report Monday at 9 a. m. to hear testimony in the indictment against Paul Finley, alias Queen, charged with cutting with intent to wound Floyd Redman, colored.

Finley, defended by Frank Redfern of Adelphi, has denied the charge and is held in jail in default of bond.

The state, represented by Ray W. Davis, charged Finley while allegedly intoxicated cut Redman with a knife in the groin on S. Washington-st. several weeks ago. Finley was arrested two days after the fracas riding toward Adelphi.

As quite a strange coincidence, Finley was riding in Earl Hill's automobile when arrested.

Witnesses in the Finley case include Floyd Redman, Harley Redman, Sheriff Charles Radcliff, Deputy Bryan Custer, Russell Kniece, Sam Thomas and Henry Smith.

Witnesses summoned for Friday's grand jury are James Bowsher, William Fowler Jr., Arthur Goodman, Frank Goff, Ada Smallwood, Dr. E. S. Shane, Deputy Sheriff Miller Russell, Walter R. Cummins of Ashville and Mrs. Thelma Huston of Monroe-twp.

GAMBLING SHIP MURDER PROBED

LONG BEACH, Cal., Sept. 21.—A mysterious gambling ship murder on the high seas early today while roulette wheels clicked and revelry was at its height caused federal authorities to detain 200 men and women guests, many clad in evening clothes, on the notorious vessel, Johanna Smith.

Norman Lorraine, 22, of Baltimore, Md., a seaman, was found fatally shot, on the upper deck, the third recent murder on gambling ships here, and the second on the Johanna Smith.

FAIR VISITORS

Society Asks Council For Police Help

$200 Sum Sought By Pumpkin Show To Finance Special Police.

UP TO COMMITTEE

Buchanan, Shaner Appear Before 'Dads.'

The finance committee of council, Thursday, was considering the request of the Pumpkin Show society that $200 be appropriated to pay special police officers to be on duty during the big show. The request was made by D. L. Buchanan, a director, who with Lee T. Shaner, another director, comprised a committee from the society.

The finance committee was voted power to act.

Mr. Buchanan said that since merchants are not being solicited for contributions this year the show society will need all funds available. "It would be a good gesture on the part of council if it would make the requested appropriation," Mr. Buchanan declared.

Councilman Clark Will stated that in the last few years council has paid claims amounting to about $700 arising from injuries suffered by visitors during the Pumpkin Show and that the society had agreed to provide police if the city would pay such claims. He said, however, that if the money was available he would be willing to vote the money for the special police.

Members of the finance committee are E. S. Neuding, chairman; Mr. Will and C. O. Leist.

HAMMEL FILES VOTE PETITION

359 Local Names on Petition Seeking Municipal Construction.

A petition asking a vote on whether or not Circleville should construct a combination municipal electric-water plant has been filed with City Auditor Lillian Young by L. C. Hammel, N. G. Spangler and W. W. Robinson, its sponsors.

Mr. Hammel announced Thursday that the petition bears 359 names. Three hundred and fifty-three were believed needed to make the petition legal. The matter will not have to go through council, Mr. Hammel declared, but will be certified by the city auditor to the board of elections. He said the office of George Myers, secretary of state, has informed him that he has until Sept. 29 to have the petition in the hands of the board of elections to insure its being placed on the ballot for a vote on Nov. 7.

The 353 number, necessary to make the petition legal, was reached by adding the number of votes cast for governor in the city at the last election. The number cast for Governor George White and for David S. Ingalls, defeated Republican, were added and found to total 3530.

If the majority of Circleville voters cast their ballots for construction of a municipal plant steps to bring about a bond issue would be next on the program.

WILEY POST HURT

QUINCY, Ill., Sept. 21.—Wiley Post, one of America's ace flyers, was believed to be seriously injured here today when his plane cracked up while he was attempting to take off from the flying field.

Post was rushed to St. Mary's hospital. Extent of his injuries could not be immediately ascertained, however, as hospital attendants refused to give out any information.

STEEL MAGNATE DIES WEDNESDAY

YOUNGSTOWN, Sept. 21.—Ending a career wrought in the steel industry, death today had claimed James A. Campbell, 79-year-old chairman of the Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co.

Campbell died at his home here last night, within the shadow of the glowing steel mill furnaces, from a heart attack.

Well known in the industry, Campbell figured prominently several years ago in the attempted merger of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation and the Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co.

HOSPITAL NEWS

Misses Daisy Martin, Fairview-ave, and Edna Russell, Clinton-st., underwent tonsilectomies at Berger hospital Thursday. The operations were performed by Dr. C. G. Stewart.

Mrs. William Packard and baby boy were returned to their home in Park-pl from the hospital Thursday.

MERRELL IRES 'DADS,' LETTER BRINGS ACTION

Highway Director Fails to Answer Request for Hearing on Roads

COUNCIL ANGERED

Seek Bohnert Aid in Arranging Confab

Indignant over failure of O. W. 'Whitey' Merrell, state highway director, to answer a communication from A. J. 'Bert' Lyle, service director, asking an interview in regards to possible steps for highway improvements here, council, Wednesday evening, went on record to seek the assistance of Nathan Bohnert, the county's representative in the general assembly, in obtaining an interview with Mr. Merrell.

Mr. Lyle wrote the highway chief a week ago and has received no reply.

LETTER WRITTEN

The text of Mr. Lyle's letter follows:

A committee representing the county commissioners and city council with our engineer would like to know what date it would be convenient to you for them to have an audience with you of about 15 or 20 minutes in regards to projects they have in mind on state routes and regarding government loans.

Realizing you are a very busy man and not wanting to take up any more of your time than possible, I thought it would be well to have a date set in advance.

Council believes that loans of 100 per cent can be obtained for reconstruction of W. Main-st beyond the Norfolk & Western railroad and E. Main-st from Mingo to the Adelphi-pk corporation Court-st from the north corporation to the Norfolk & Western tracks is also under consideration.

OTHERS SET AID

Members of council believe that a letter to Mr. Merrell will not be sufficient. Several were in favor of going to the highway director's office without an appointment. C. O. Leist, first ward councilman, moved that arrangements for a meeting be made through Mr. Bohnert and F. A. Marion, councilman-at-large, moved to amend the motion and ask that Mr. Bohnert go along to interview Mr. Merrell.

One councilman after the meeting said: "It seems strange that we can pick up newspapers and see where the state highway department is doing much work in other cities and counties while we cannot even receive an answer to a letter sent to the director of the highway department."

COUNCIL TO AID FIRE-HOUSE, SMITH

Plan To Spend $500 In Repairs At Engine-house; Boost Smith's Pay.

A real 'going-over' for the fire department and a boost in the salary of Raymond H. Smith, night desk sergeant of the police department, loomed today after the safety committee of council, T. M. Barnes chairman, recommended that requests of Safety Director J. W. Crist be carried out.

Mr. Barnes recommended that $500 be appropriated for work at the fire department with repairs to be made, new bedding to be purchased, piping to be done and screens to be obtained. Such work has not been done at the fire department for many years. Living conditions there have been poor, to say the least.

Council approved Mr. Barnes' report and instructions were given Paul E. Adkins, solicitor, to draw an ordinance to appropriate the money.

Smith's salary may be doubled by council. Mr. Crist recommended two weeks ago that his pay be boosted to equal that of police officers. He told council that Smith is as efficient as any man on the force and has been doing work not required of him. He has been receiving only $50 a month.

Mr. Barnes recommended the request of the director be followed and Mr. Marion moved that an ordinance to change the salary be prepared.

MRS. JENKINS FREE

Mrs. Nina Jenkins, who declared several weeks ago that she would rather go to jail than return to her husband and two minor children after abandoning them, was released from the county jail Wednesday afternoon after serving a jail sentence.

She declared upon release that she does not intend to return home.

Tickets on Sale For Friday Tilt

Local School Gets Good Percentage if Tickets Are Bought Here; Lancaster Team Built Around Beach and Cann With Morris to Prove Bulwark of Forward Wall; Normie Coleman Big Question Mark In Local Backfield.

Tickets were put on sale here today for the opening high school football game at Lancaster, Friday night. The contest starts at 8 p. m. on North field where the event has been played the last two years.

From past showings the local team should put up a good game against the Lancasterites but it must be observed Circleville's team is more an unknown quantity this year than ever before. Coach Pete Herberholz has a problem in his line which would make many coaches toss up a sponge.

Bill Robinson and Lee Cook are practically the only veterans in the line and Cook played part of last season in the backfield.

Normie Coleman, fleet colored youth, is being groomed to do a lot of ball carrying with Gaines

Hill, Speakman and Fred Smith in there to block. All three other backs will get their share of ball-toting, also.

TICKET PRICES

Tickets are being sold to adults for 35 cents, to students for 20 cents and to grade children for a dime. The local high school received 50 per cent of money secured from tickets sold in this city; if they are sold in Lancaster the fee is only 25 per cent, thus school officials urge that tickets be purchased here to help the high school association.

The high school band with Miss Jane Littleton acting as drum major for the first time, although she had considerable experience with the junior organization, will accompany the team. Players will travel in private cars to defray expenses.

Instead of Stanton Jones officiating as was announced Monday, Art Jones, Columbus North high coach, will officiate. Stonehan will also be an official.

About This And That

BY THE SECOND GUESSER

THE Columbus ball club is probably lucky to be the champion of its league, although it did finish more than 15 games ahead of the field. Here's the reason: champions of at least two other leagues in the regular season fell by the wayside. They included the Newark Bears, farm of the New York Yankees, and the Houston Buffs, another Cardinal farm.

The Bears held a lead of 14 1-2 games at the end of the playing season but lost to Rochester in the playoff. Houston led Galveston in second place by 6 1-2 games but lost three in a row to the fourth place San Antonio club in the playoff. The Buffs scored but seven runs in all three games of the playoff five of those coming in a game which was lost 10-5. Houston had finished far ahead of San Antonio in the regular season winning eight to four games in Houston and eight to two in San Antonio.

There's an additional reason why the Circleville high Tigers should defeat Lancaster, Friday night. Charlie Davis, former halfback on the Tiger squad, who now wields the shoe-shining brush at Frank Howard's barber shop, has promised a free 'shine' to all players who get in the contest if they win. We aren't certain whether ties count.

Buffalo treated Rochester's mound staff in a rough manner Wednesday evening to win the fourth game of the INT series by a 16-4 count. The playoff now stands two-and-two with the remaining game to be played at Buffalo. Ollie Carnegie started the ball rolling for Buffalo hitting a home run with the bases full. Therein lies a story. Carnegie has played on several eastern Ohio ball lots having been a resident of the McKeesport, Pa. vicinity. He had a good job in a tube mill until the depression set in. He always was a clubber but he also liked his tube mill work. Lower salaries and finally no jobs at all resulted so Ollie decided to capitalize in his baseball. Buffalo is mighty glad he did.

SENATORS CAN CLINCH TITLE

Need Single Victory With Eight Games Remaining On Schedule.

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—Those New York Yankees, like a bride sending hubby off to work, insist on lingering just a little longer.

They hate to kiss that 1933 American league pennant goodbye forever.

But even though the disappointed New Yorkers hung on tooth and toe yesterday by beating Chicago's disappointing White Sox again, while Washington was taking one from the St. Louis Browns, the thing can't continue much longer.

A single decimal point is all that keeps the Yankees from knowing they can't win out and a single game is all the Senators need to insure them the bunting. So the Nats can win their own race by beating the St. Louis Browns again today or they can continue the suspense by waiting until the idle Yanks play and ultimately drop a contest.

New York is seven and a half games behind and would have to win all of their remaining eight games, while Washington lost all of its remaining seven games, to upset the Senators.

Al Crowder put the Nats within a whisker of the title by turning back St. Louis, 13 to 5. He refused to hedge an inch after the Browns took five hits, Washington putting the affair in the ice box in the third inning with a hitting orgy that sent over seven runs.

A Plea for Studied Action

By IRVIN S. COBB

TWO ball teams, made up of inmates of San Quentin in California, played a game for the prison championship. One team was composed of negroes, the other of white men.

In the seventh inning, with the score a tie, the pitcher for the colored team, a long-term man, grow nervous under the strain. He wound up too quickly. In his haste he made wild pitches. He gave the opposing batters their bases on balls.

Over on the side lines a negro rooster raised his voice in steady words to the champion of his race:

"Tek' yo' time, black boy," he clarioned. "Tek' yo' time! You ain't needin' to be in no hurry. You got a-plenty time to win dis game in—you got nineteen years!"

OHIO SENATE

four amendments, all of which were defeated. He also proposed that the vote be delayed until today "on account of the lateness of the hour." This also was beaten.

With 17 votes required, only 16 could be mustered at first. After numerous roll-calls, Senator Walter Ruff (R) of Canton, cast the needed vote and two other senators who had been silent also voted in the affirmative.

"It's a farce, a scandal, a disgrace to the state that so much protection against taxes has been given to the public utility companies," exclaimed Senator Joseph N. Ackerman (R), of Cleveland, in demanding that the bill be passed.

The Haynes bill would levy a 1 per cent tax against gas and telephone companies' gross receipts in excess of $100,000 annually. One of the defeated Yoder amendments proposed to raise the exemption to $400,000. The bill would be effective from Oct. 1, 1933, to March 31, 1935. The tax would be paid by the companies, who would not be permitted to transfer it to their customers.

A provision allowing the state director of education to close down high schools of 90 pupils or less, and send them to other high schools, was whacked from the Gunsett bill last night in the House.

AID FOR PUPILS

Principal provisions of the bill by which the state would guarantee an education standard of $39 per elementary pupil and $66 per high school pupil, were allowed to stand. The bill also sets up a maximum of $1,050 a year which may be spent for one-teacher state-aid schools.

Rural members of the House denied that the closing of small high schools would constitute economy and said they objected to the proposed "one-man power" asked for the director of education.

Efforts to obtain Senate concurrence in an amendment striking this power from the bill, and in an amendment denying the county budget commission authority in fixing school expenditures, were planned today in the Senate. A concurrence vote failed last night, and a reconsideration was to be asked.

A final blow was dealt the movement to obtain state-aid funds for parochial schools. An amendment to the Gunsett bill providing such aid was ruled out of order by Speaker Frank Cave who declared the question had already been beaten when the Goodwin $400,000 parochial school bill was rejected Tuesday.

MANY MINOR BILLS

Numerous minor bills were passed as the two branches cleared the way for adjournment.

The Haynes bill authorizing the department of public works to transfer abandoned canal lands in Licking-co to the state highway department was approved in both houses.

Members of the Senate concurred in amendments to the A-act kidnapping bill, providing the death penalty for kidnappers when the victim dies, and also to amendments to the Gingham bill exempting newspaper haulers transporting shipments of less than 1,000 pounds from the Donovan law requiring licenses for contract haulers.

Wearing Cravats

Neckties, formerly called "cravats," were first worn during the French revolution, at the same time that long pants came into fashion. The custom of wearing cravats was borrowed from the Croats, who at that time were called "Cravats."

two of the men—Leonard Scarnici, 27, and Anthony Reino, 23.

"LOOK LIKE MEN"

"They look like two of the men I saw when I was snatched," O'Connell told police last night when he was rushed here to look the suspects over.

"But it's tough to send a man away for 50 years when you aren't sure. I am not positive these two are the fellows."

Later, O'Connell told newspapermen he was sure Scarnici and Reino were members of the band which held him. But he declined formally to make the identification stick.

Police and federal investigators, who had trailed the gang incessantly since the night O'Connell was "snatched," felt the young National Guard lieutenant would make the identification positive after his first shock at seeing them had passed.

Meantime Scarnici and Reino were booked on charges of homicide and robbery in connection with half a dozen bank robberies and the slaying of at least five men, alleged former gang confederates.

Police and federal authorities today refused to divulge the source of their information leading to the round-up—one of the most brilliant coups in the war on crime and racketeering.

It was reported a "leak" from an underworld source first revealed the trail leading to the seven prisoners. Another report was that a contact made by the O'Connell kidnapers with Manny Strew, Albany "go between" in the ransom negotiations, led to the raids. Strew has been indicted in Albany for the kidnaping of young O'Connell.

But officials of the New York police department gave full credit to federal investigators who took up the trail of the kidnapers and clung to it doggedly, in the face of countless difficulties.

The federal agents, cooperating with state and local police, methodically and persistently located every member of the gang; day and night they kept watch on their comings and goings.

Then, armed with what they feel sure is convincing evidence, they sprang the trap.

URSCHEL RECEIVES THREAT FROM THUG

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Sept. 21.—George "Machine Gun" Kelly today gave the Charles F. Urschel trial a sinister sensation in the form of one of the most viciously worded death threats ever flung from the underworld.

Kelly mailed a letter from Chicago to Urschel threatening not only to kill him but to do away with his family "immediately after the trial."

"You are living on borrowed time now," Kelly said in one part of the missive.

He referred to Urschel as a "sap" and asked: "Are you ignorant enough to think the government can guard you forever?"

AIDS PROSECUTION

Urschel, the millionaire oil man who was kidnapped and held for the record ransom of $200,000, has been active in aiding the United States government in the prosecution of his abductors.

Twelve persons, one of them a woman, Mrs. R. G. Shannon, are on trial in federal court charged with the Urschel kidnapping. Two others indicted are fugitives—Kelly and his titan-haired wife, Katherine Kelly, Kelly's wife is Mrs. Shannon's daughter.

Among the defendants are two of the most notorious "bad men" in the country—Harvey J. Bailey and Albert Bates.

Bates, according to Urschel and other witnesses who testified at the trial, was the man who accompanied "Machine Gun" Kelly to the Urschel home in Oklahoma City on the night of July 22 last when the oil man was "snatched." Kelly, witnesses said in identifying him from a photograph, carried a machine gun on that occasion.

Kelly's death threat letter was addressed to "Ignorant Charles" and proceeded in this vein:

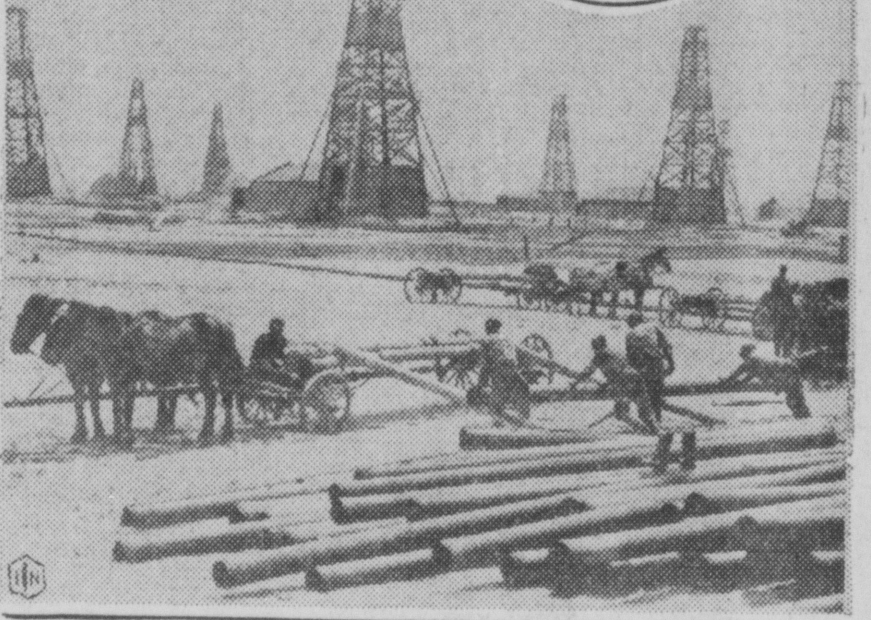

"Just a few lines to let you know that I am getting my plans laid to destroy your so-called mansion, and you and your family immediately after this trial. And, young fellow, I guess you've begun to realize your serious mis-

JESSE H. JONES

AMERICAN PIPES for SOVIET OIL WELLS

Following negotiations between Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, and Peter A. Bogdanov, chairman of the board of Amtorg, American trading agency owned by Soviet Russia, it is believed a big financial deal, involving a loan of from $50,000,000 to $75,000,000 to the Soviet, is on the way to being consummated. Terms of the loan are that the money is to be spent in the United States for the purchase of American goods, wheat, copper, cotton, aluminum and machinery. The projected deal is remarkable inasmuch as the United States does not officially recognize the Soviet. However, with the closer relationship bound to result from such business dealings, observers say, it is only a matter of time until diplomatic relations are resumed between the two countries.

Questions and Answers

Why is vinegar added to fat in frying doughnuts? When should it be added, if used?

Vinegar sometimes is added to fat for frying doughnuts to prevent them having a fatty taste. It should be added at the moment the fat is put over the fire. As soon as the fat melts, if it is not already a liquid, it will sink to the bottom. As the fat grows hot the vinegar, volatilized at a lower temperature, will rise through it and by its inter-penetration will annul the fatty flavor. It is highly dangerous to add any cold liquid to a hot fat and an explosion is the likely outcome.

How can coffee flavoring be added to ice creams or frozen desserts?

Instead of using strong coffee to flavor your custards, frozen desserts and the like, it is better to scald 5 or 6 level tablespoons of finely-ground, dry coffee in the milk. This method of adding the coffee gives a deliciously distinct coffee taste instead of the mild suggestion of flavor obtained in adding a cup or so of strong coffee infusion. The grounds must be strained from the milk, of course, but this can be done before adding the thickening to the milk. The same method is effective for coffee custards, blancmange, coffee tapioca and frostings that have any liquid content.

Why do cakes stick to the pans, even when the pans are greased and dusted with flour?

Cake pans do not need to be washed with soap and water to clean them after using. If the pans are washed the tendency is for cakes to stick. If you prefer greasing and dusting with flour to lining the pan with oiled paper, use soft paper napkins to remove crumbs from the cake pan as soon as the cake is removed. The tin still will be hot and while it is hot the moist crumbs will roll out more easily. The pan will become tempered after using it several times in this manner, and cakes will not stick, even though greasing has been omitted.

Chocolate Plum Cake

1/2 C. shortening 1/2 tsp. soda
1 C. sugar 4 Tbsp. cocoa
2 beaten egg yolks 3 tsp. baking powder
3/4 C. milk 1/2 C. chopped walnut meats
1 tsp. vanilla
2 C. flour 2 beaten egg whites
1/4 tsp. salt 1/2 C. cooked prunes

— Cream shortening and sugar until light and fluffy. Add egg yolks and a small amount of the dry ingredients. Sift together flour, salt, soda, cocoa and baking powder. Add milk and dry ingredients until all are included. Fold in the nuts, the beaten egg whites and the prunes. Pour into two greased layer tins and bake 25 to 30 minutes at 350 degrees. Put layers together with a boiled frosting.

Boiled Frosting

2 C. sugar 4 egg whites beaten
1 C. boiling water until stiff
2 tsp. corn syrup 1 tsp. vanilla

Cook sugar water and corn syrup together, stirring until dissolved. When the syrup reaches 244 degrees pour slowly in a thin stream over egg whites, beating continuously until cool enough to pile up thick on the cake.

An Appeal to the Senses

By IRVIN S. COBB

THE editor of a New York evening newspaper has a little niece who, on her sixth birthday, received as presents a wrist-watch and a large bottle of perfumery. Having strapped on the watch, and cop-

ously scented herself, the youngster spent the entire day proudly parading the apartment directing the attention of all and sundry to her new possessions. Eventually she became somewhat of a bore. For the evening some friends of her parents were coming in.

"Honey," said her mother, "I can understand why you should be proud of your birthday gifts but grown people are not interested in such things. You may come to dinner tonight on condition that you do not mention your wrist-watch or your bottle of perfumery."

The little one promised. At the table she sat, saying not a word, but from time to time sniffing audibly, and at frequent intervals raising her left wrist to her ear to catch the sound of the ticking. These tactics failed to attract attention on the part of the guests. Toward the end of the meal, in a lull in the conversation, little Miss Helen spoke: "Listen, everybody," she said, "If anybody hears anything or smells anything sweet, it's me."

WASHINGTON-TWP SCHOOL NEWS

We have had nine pupils to enter school since the first report, most of them in the lower grades. The enrollment in the first and second grades is now 48.

William Woodring, who was not able to start the first of school because of illness, was back in school today.

The H. S. Choral club consists of the following pupils: Sopranos: Martha Hitler, Lucille Schreck, Sophia Peters, Eileen Brown, Myrtle McDaniel, Edith Valentine, Dorothy Dresbach, Marie Parish, and Modie Allen; Altos: Erma Valentine, Almada Sayre, Eleanor Dresbach, Kathryn Kraft, (pianist), Olive Hartley, Doris Chester, Margaret List; Tenors: Grover Dresbach; Bass: David Adams, Earl Leist and Emmet Frazier.

The members of the H. S. orchestra are as follows: Pianists: Kathryn Kraft, Martha Hitler, Edith Valentine; Violins: Olive Hartley, Margaret List; Clarinet: Emmet Frazier, David Adams, Thomas Reichelderfer and Eugene Barthlemas; Saxophone: Gail Barthlemas.

The music in the grades this month is a study of American music including patriotic songs, folk songs, etc.

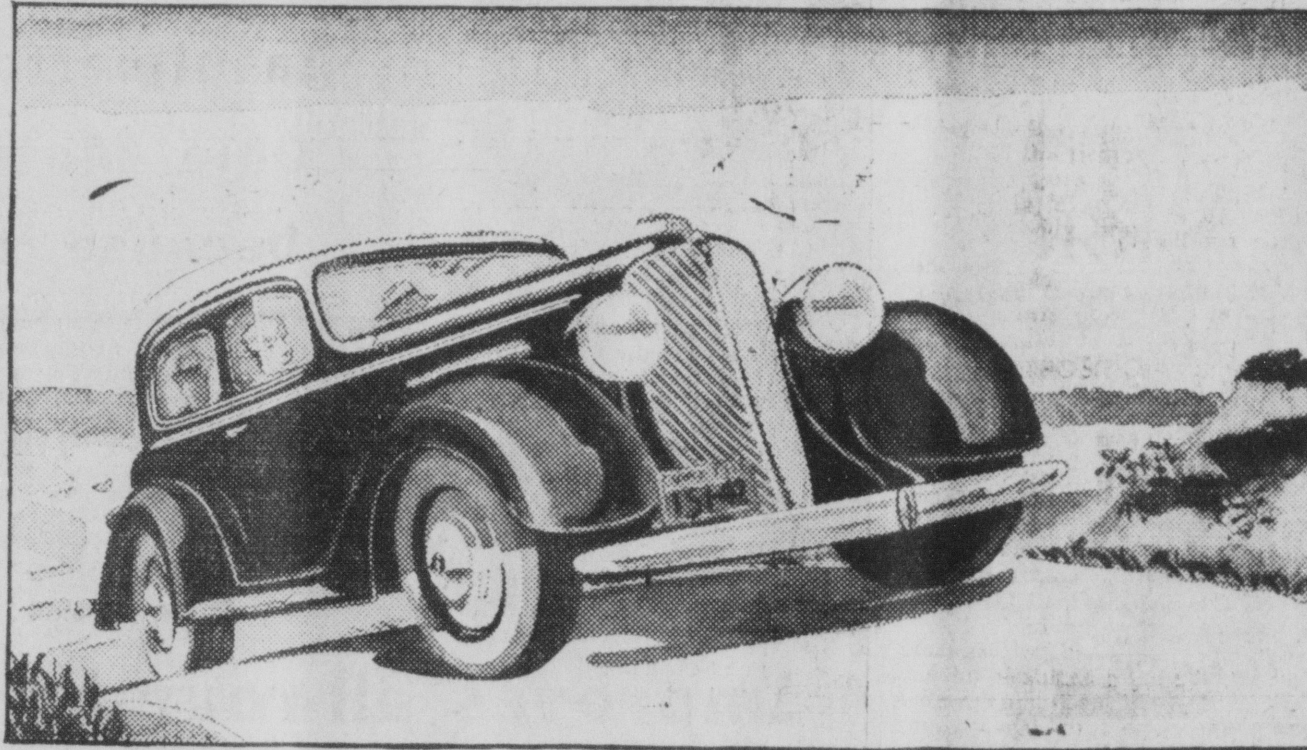

The music appreciation hour twice a month is of great interest to the H. S. The work will be in collaboration with the broadcast of Walter Damrosch's symphony orchestra and the first work is a study of instruments and there history and use.

Our first baseball games of the season resulted in defeats for both our teams. Last Friday we journeyed over to Monroe the girls were defeated by a score of 13 to 5, and the boys lost by a score of 8 to 3. We hope for better scores next time.

Wednesday was Freshman day and the freshmen looked strange as they wore their peculiar costumes. The day was rounded out with a party at the schoolhouse at eight o'clock. During which the Freshmen were initiated into the Secrets of the Upper classmen.

The P. T. A. held its first meeting at the schoolhouse Tuesday evening of last week, a good attendance showed the interest of the people in this years school. The regular meetings are on the second Tuesday of each month and the Association is looking forward to a very active year. The P. T. A. served dinner to 60 teachers

ESCAPE-PROOF CELL

DENVER — An "escape-proof" cell, especially designed for criminals of the Harvey Bailey type, was recently constructed within the Denver county jail. The cell is built of concrete with a double set of bars over the window and door. A steel cage is then set inside the cell, with a runway completely around the cage inside the cell. A heavy steel door was fixed in the entrance to the cage, and another in the entrance to the cell.

Nabbing the Fugitive

FUGITIVES from justice can find little refuge in the United States since the Committee on Uniform Crime Records of the International Associations of Chiefs of Police began its work three years ago, work now being carried on by the bureau of investigation of the United States Department of Justice.

Once he has been caught, "mugged" and fingerprinted the criminal's life is not an easy one. No matter where he may go his crimes will find him out sooner or later. Every move he makes is under the watchful eye of the police, an eye that has been multiplied thousands of times by the modern method of keeping and broadcasting criminal records.

Three years ago the organized police chiefs started out with 399 cooperating law-enforcing agencies and no central rogues' gallery. Today they have the cooperation of 6,066 agencies in 1,546 cities and towns and have on file in a central office 3,870,810 fingerprint records of criminals and suspects.

Fingerprint records made it possible to take 346 fugitives from justice into custody last month and that was no unusual month. The fingerprint records provided the government with leads on 2,363 suspects when the war on kidnapers was declared.

Society is planning to cut the dividends it has been paying to the unsocial ever since man began to seek the society of his fellows.

Byrd's Second Trip

THAT Admiral Byrd, planning a second trip into Antarctica, intends to make a searching exploration of that little known area, is indicated by some of the equipment he will take with him.

In addition to an airplane, he will carry motor sleds, tractors and 150 dogs. He expects to do "ten times as much flying this time as before," he said in announcing the early start of his expedition.

It is to be expected that some interesting discoveries will be made and a great deal of scientific data collected.

The expedition is made possible by private contributions. Its backers are performing a valuable public service, the extent of which can not yet be known. Admiral Byrd, who ended a two-years' stay in the Antarctic about four years ago, is a veteran explorer, and the expedition under his direction will be in capable hands.

FESS ASKS PUBLIC TO SUPPORT N. R. A.

SPRINGFIELD, Sept. 21.—Appeal for public support of President Roosevelt's national recovery program had been issued here today by United States Senator Simeon D. Fess of Yellow Springs, Ohio.

Addressing Kiwanians here, Senator Fess declared that since the public had demanded the president be given unlimited power, "it is essential that full cooperation be given and every effort expanded to make the recovery program a success."

Renouncing talk that failure of the recovery program would result in a revolution, Senator Fess declared that the plan should be regarded only as an emergency set-up.

CHAPTER XXXVII

"I came here because my son wants to marry your niece, Lyla Barstow went on determinedly, and I came to ask you a question you have not answered yet—"

Evvie stood up, brushed imaginary crumbs from her stiff white shirtwaist. "I didn't consider it necessary to answer an anonymous letter," she said, fixing the younger woman with her beady black eyes, "but since you insist, I do. My niece brought us no trouble. She knew no soldiers, sailors, nor traveling salesmen. She knew no boys at all, nor men. Your letter is a lie."

"But your sister—"

"My sister, I regret to say, is a fool. She's still ailing a family skeleton twenty-five years old. Joan's mother stole her sweetheart, Peter Hastings, Judge Hastings' son. There's our skeleton. My sister Veronica's escapade. Secret wedding. Suicide. Nice story. Want to hear some more about it before you let your son marry a Van Fleet?"

Mrs. Barstow thought she could hear the little bent sister still crying as she went down the stairs, but perhaps it was only the eucalyptus trees whispering in the wind.

Evvie watched her go, still grinning, showing all her beautiful blue-white store teeth. "I almost wish I'd let Babe talk. Now we're going to have that in the family... Joan's a nunny. She should have married the first one..."

Congratulations, engagement gifts, a tide of felicity rolled over Joan, almost drowning her in excitement.

"They don't let me even come up for air!"

"Well, it's all part of it, I suppose," Curtis said good-humoredly, and though he protested that he never had a moment alone with her, which he didn't, she knew that he liked it. He liked things done decently, and in order. Liked to think that Joan's beauty was creating a sensation, and the right people were feting her.

"When I met her heart on a church-wedding—did she tell you? At the cathedral, the bishop and everything—"

"I've been a bride so often," Joan murmured, grinning. "In Francine's shop," she hastened to add when he didn't smile. He never saw the point in the things that convulsed her with merriment. Dear Curtis... so sensible... so good... "Let's not think about the shop any more, Joan. That's all behind us. Let's just look ahead—"

"Yes—just look ahead—" Her eyes filled with tears. She took his hand and held it tenderly against her cheek... always look ahead never look back.

"Are you happy?" Maisie asked, looking at the big, square diamond Curtis had put on the third finger of her left hand.

"Because I have a ring?" Joan asked, smiling at it. A lovely ring. A raindrop on tiny platinum myrtle leaves, twining round her finger.

"Yes—that and everything—"

But Joan only laughed. "Of course. At least I think I am, they haven't given me time to really stop and think about it. Something every moment. Curtis wants me to give up my work now, but I want to keep it a little longer—"

"It does seem too much, dearie, working all day, and going out every night. Seems to me some times you look kind of feverish—"

"Oh, no, Maisie. Just happy and rushed. And I love to be rushed, you know I do."

"Yes, I know," Maisie went away half satisfied. She knew that Joan's pillow was often wet in the morning. Knew that she lay awake in the darkness crying... what for? For that other one? Oh, why wouldn't the girl be thankful for what she had, what did she want, the moon?

Dinner parties, dances, theatre parties. Gay, sparkling affairs to which the season's debutantes came. Everyone was charming to her. Mrs. Barstow saw to that. Joan never knew the time and statesmanship that went into launching Curtis's bride-to-be in San Francisco society.

"But Curtis knew and rejoiced. Happy, was always asking her if she was happy, and now it was Curtis, looking at her with kind, light brown eyes, full of love, full of devotion and something else—" yearning—that sent the blood to racing sickly in her heart, and made the little fugitive memories come out of their secret hiding places... calling... calling...

"Oh, I shouldn't keep thinking of him—I shouldn't—it isn't fair to Curtis... why can't I forget like other people? Why do I have to keep on wanting someone who doesn't want me?"

And aloud she said, "Are you happy, Curtis?"

"So happy that I am afraid to believe it's true."

She slipped one slender arm about his shoulder, drew him to her fiercely, protectively. Why shouldn't it be true? Why shouldn't Curtis be happy, even if she couldn't? Why not give to Curtis... what Bill didn't want. Forget what might have been... forget...

"Joan—are you listening?"

"Of course, I'm listening."

"Joan, I didn't tell you, but I got the craziest letter about a week ago. At first I wasn't going to say any—"

"What?" She raised her shamed head, stared at him incredulously. "A sailor? Why, Curtis—"

"Didn't I tell you it was crazy? Yes, a sailor from Goat Island—"

"A sailor," she echoed. Oh the blessed relief of it. Not being found out. Safe. "A sailor!" She was laughing now, laughing with relief and helplessness, high shrieks of laughter that tore at her heart, and hurt... way down deep inside. "Oh, you don't know how funny that is... if you knew my aunt—"

"I'd have to swim to Goat Island—they'd never have let anyone on the premises—"

"Would you have cared... if it were true?" she asked very low, so low that he could hardly hear the question.

"Johnnie!" He strained her to him, smoothing her hair, soothing her. "You mustn't have morbid thoughts like that. I want you to be always sunny and laughing, always my own merry Joan—"

"Joan, I didn't tell you, but I got the craziest letter about a week ago. At first I wasn't going to say any—"

Marian Martin Patterns

Complete, Diagrammed Marian Martin Sew Chart Included

PATTERN 9780

This perky model will be adored by the Junior Miss. The broad shoulder line achieved with the clever loops is important this season—they can be omitted if you wish. A fetching collar of contrast that ripples and flatters even the prettiest face will catch your eye. Skirt pleats lend delightful animation. One smart idea is to combine a new crepe with cotton or silk.

Pattern 9780 may be ordered only in sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20.

Size 16 requires 3 3/4 yards 39 inch fabric and 1/4 yard contrasting.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS in coins or stamps (coin preferred) for each MARIAN MARTIN pattern. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, the STYLE NUMBER and SIZE of each pattern ordered.

Study the new mode at its best with the MARIAN MARTIN PATTERN BOOK FOR FALL AND WINTER. All the new style highlights—shoulders, collars, sleeves, skirts—are cleverly worked out in their easiest-to-make form.

Clothes for juniors and kiddies, reflecting new trends, and Marian Martin's famous slenderizing models are shown. Lingerie and gift patterns, too. This book will guide you to a distinctive wardrobe at little effort and small cost.

Auctions and Legals

SHERIFF'S SALE OF REAL ESTATE

Virginia Joint Stock Land Bank of Charleston, Plaintiff, vs.

Charles G. Massey, et al. Defendants.

Court of Common Pleas, Pickaway County, Ohio.

Case No. 17,039

In pursuance of an Order of Sale from said Court, to me directed in the above entitled action, I will expose to sale, at public auction, at the door of the Court House in Circleville, Pickaway County, Ohio, on Monday the 16th day of October 1933 at 2 o'clock P. M., the following described real estate, situated in the County of Pickaway and State of Ohio, and in the Township of Perry to-wit:

TRACT NO. ONE

Being Tract Number One and Tract Number Two, Tract Number One being that portion of lands which Peter Lewis died seized, which was set off and assigned to Maud A. Chittum by the Court of Common Pleas of Pickaway County, Ohio, in a certain proceeding in partition of said Court, wherein Sanford R. Lewis, et al. were plaintiffs and Hettie Lewis, et al. were defendants and known as Lot No. Five (5) on the Plat as recorded in said proceeding and more particularly described as follows:

Beginning at a stone, White Oak and Black Oak, on the North side of the Williamsport and Dublin Hill Road and corner to Hays' land; thence with the old original line of Survey S. 75 deg. 15 min. E. 13 poles and 12 links to a stone, corner to Hays' and Hancock's land; thence with Hancock's line S. 82 deg. 45 min. E. 65.16 poles to a stone N. E. corner of Lot No. one of the subdivision of the lands of Peter Lewis, thence with the same N. 75 deg. 15 min. E. 13 poles to a stone, White Oak and Hickory, N. E. corner to No. One; thence 2 deg. 45 min. E. 65 poles to the beginning containing 57 acres and 4 poles, more or less, and being part of Survey Nos. 7076, 7078, 12308, 6147, and 7887.

SECOND TRACT:

Beginning at a stone N. E. corner of this tract and West line of the Sheriff's land, also corner to Raymond Champlain (now owned by Luther Curtis); thence with his South line N. 72 deg. 12 min. E. 32.2 chains to a stone in the West line of the Sheriff's land; thence with said Sheriff's West line N. 16 deg. 14 min. E. 32.2 chains to the beginning, containing 29.94 acres of land more or less, of which 17.64 acres are in surveys Nos. 6147, 6148, and 7887, and 12.30 acres in Survey No. 12308, and being the same tracts or parcels of real estate conveyed by Luther Curtis and Angelina Curtis, his wife, by deed dated February 26, 1920, and recorded in Pickaway County, Ohio, Deed Records in Vol. 84 at Page 630.

Said Premises Appraised at $30.00 per acre.

Terms of Sale: CASH.

In pursuance of the said Order of Sale, Sheriff of Pickaway County, Ohio, JAMES F. PICKERING, Attorney.

(Sept. 14, 21, 28, Oct. 4, 11).

OHIO SENATE VOTES NEW UTILITY TAXES

SURPRISE VOTE GAINS RESULTS

One Per Cent on Incomes Supported; Lobbyists' Efforts Fail

AID FOR SCHOOL

Prescription Liquor Also to Be Taxed

COLUMBUS, Sept. 21.—Changing the entire legislative picture, a 1 per cent utilities tax bill, passed by the state senate last night in a surprise move, caused a reopening today of the drive to raise money for state-aid schools before adjournment.

In an entirely unexpected action, the Haynes bill levying taxes on gas and telephone companies was taken away from the special taxation committee, approved by a vote of 19 to 0, and sent to the House, where it was expected to come up today.

With that as a starter, the Senate then prepared to vote this afternoon on the Yoder bill taxing prescription liquors 50 cents a pint.

WOULD BE ENOUGH

The liquor bill would raise $1,000,000 a year and the Haynes bill would produce $1,500,000 for a period of 18 months. Combined receipts of the two would bring in almost enough to operate the state-aid schools until Jan. 1, 1934, under the Gunsett school financing bill which the House passed last night and sent back to the Senate for concurrence in amendments.

Demands for immediate adjournment continued, however, and there was a possibility that the tax bills would be lost in the rush. Adjournment sometime late today was predicted.

The dormant hope of levying new taxes to provide for the schools was awakened suddenly at last night's session after the House passed the Gunsett bill.

Braving the wrath of Governor George White, who had threatened a veto, the lower branch approved a section which provided that $3,000,000 shall be paid to the state-aid schools for the remainder of the year from the general revenue fund. The governor said he would veto this section unless new tax moneys were raised.

UTILITY BILL CALLED

Senator W. P. Haynes (D), of Coshocton, arose dramatically on the floor of the Senate and asked that his utilities bill, long buried in the special taxation committee, be called up for passage.

The Senate agreed. Lobbyists, who had considered the utilities bill dead, came scurrying to the chamber. Senator Paul Yoder (D) of Dayton, offered (Continued on Page Two)

SEVEN JAILED IN ABDUCTION

Police Believe O'Connell Kidnaping Cleared With Arrests.

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—Confident the abduction of John J. O'Connell, Jr., would be "a closed case" by nightfall police and federal agents today swept toward a clean-up of one of the nation's most notorious kidnapers, a series of murders and bank robberies, and the climax of a crushing blow delivered in the government's campaign of extermination of kidnap-racketeers.

O'Connell, scion of a politically powerful Albany family, was to view in the police lineup five men and two women seized in swift raids in the Bronx section here and Mt. Kisco, N. Y.

Authorities were confident that the abduction of O'Connell, abducted from his home last July 7 and held captive three weeks until his family paid a $40,000 ransom, would clinch his partial identification of (Continued on Page Two)

Kansas Governor Airs Kidnap Plot

Says Members of Underhill Gang Sought Hostages; To Seek Paroles.

TOPEKA, Kans., Sept. 21.—A daring plot of the underworld to kidnap a member of Gov. Alfred Landon's family to hold as hostage for the parole of six convicts, said to be members of the notorious Underhill gang, was revealed today by the governor.

A heavy guard was stationed over members of the official family and the governor cancelled all speaking engagements when the plot was revealed three weeks ago by a former inmate of the state prison at Lansing, who had been free only a few days.

An effort of officers to trap members of the kidnap ring at a farm house in Oklahoma failed, it was revealed. The members of the abduction gang apparently had learned their plan had reached official ears and had fled before officers reached the scene.

Add Three New Members to County Wheat Acreage Reduction Committee

The wheat acreage reduction set-up is progressing nicely today with a meeting scheduled for Washington and Circleville-twp. tonight and for Salterco-twp. Friday evening. After this week six more township meetings will complete the second visit of Guy Dowdy, emergency administrator, to each township.

At the conclusion of the meetings the permanent county committee will be organized with prospects that money for unused wheat land will be coming into Pick-away-co. at an early date. If all farmers sign to reduce their wheat acreage a sum of approximately $130,000 will come into the county with the price per acre amounting to an average of $15.

Three townships have organized this week with the result that three new members of the county committee have been named. They

LEGION ELECTS BETTS LEADER

William Betts Jr. to Be Installed by Eber's October 18

PLAN MARDI GRAS

Shafer Named First Vice Commander

William Betts, Jr., E. Union-st., was elected commander of Howard Hall Post American Legion at a meeting Wednesday evening. He succeeds Orin W. Dreisbach, Pick-away-twp., who held the post during the past year.

Other officers named were: Reed Shafer, first vice commander; George Burns, second vice commander; Paul H. Betz, adjutant; Christian Schwarz, treasurer; Henry Mason, chaplain, and Ralph Nessell and Loren Dudson, sergeants-at-arms.

INSTALL ON OCT. 18

The new officers will be installed Wednesday evening, Oct. 18, with E. C. Ebert, a past commander, as the installing officer.

Plans are being made for a huge Armistice Day celebration, according to the newly-elected commander. If plans work out, the Halloween celebration such as that held last year, and the Armistice program, will be merged with a Mardi Gras and street parade in the evening of Nov. 11. Civic clubs in the city will be asked to work with the Legion in sponsoring the event, Mr. Betts says.

First American Captured In War Seeks Ford Job

DETROIT, Sept. 21.—"Broken" and in search of work Sergeant Edgar M. Haliburton, one of America's premier World War heroes, has applied for one of the 5,000 jobs Henry Ford has promised to Wayne-co. ex-servicemen.

Looking up at the latest arrival in the seemingly endless line of veterans parading past his desk, Rex Humphrey, Wayne-co. American Legion commander, was startled to find himself staring into "the face that launched a thousand ships."

"All I want is a job and a chance to get back on my feet," said Haliburton, his famous fighting jaw set, and his eyes as grim as they were in 1917.

Sergeant Haliburton was the first Yank to be captured by the Germans in the World War. The tale of how he faced his vengeful captors and told them to "shoot and be damned," has become a classic of martial legends. A German photographer snapped a picture of him as he defied his captors' demands for information, and later the photograph was smuggled into the United States.

It became the inspiration for Cyrus E. Dallin's famous statue used on posters advertising the Third Liberty Loan.

FINLEY TRIAL OPENS MONDAY

Charge Is Cutting With Intent To Wound; Grand Jury Meets Friday.

With a special session of the grand jury to report Friday to deliberate four cases, including a charge against Earl Hill, colored, Judge J. W. Adkins announced Thursday that the trial of Finley is to report Monday at 9 a. m. to hear testimony in the indictment against Paul Finley, alias Queen, charged with cutting with intent to wound Floyd Redman, colored.

Finley, defended by Frank Redfern of Adelphi, has denied the charge and is held in jail in default of bond.

The state, represented by Ray W. Davis, charged Finley while allegedly intoxicated cut Redman with a knife in the groin on S. Washington-st. several weeks ago. Finley was arrested two days after the fracas riding toward Adelphi.

At quite a strange coincidence, Finley was riding in Earl Hill's automobile when arrested.

Witnesses in the Finley case include Floyd Redman, Harley Redman, Sheriff Charles Radcliff, Deputy Bryan Custer, Russell Knice, Sam Thomas and Henry Smith.

Witnesses summoned for Friday's grand jury are James Bowsher, William Fowler Jr., Arthur Goodman, Frank Goff, Ada Smallwood, Dr. E. S. Shane, Deputy Sheriff Miller Pissell, Walter R. Gammels of Ashville and Mrs. Thelma Huston of Monroe-twp.

GAMBLING SHIP MURDER PROBED

LONG BEACH, Cal., Sept. 21.—A mysterious gambling ship murder on the high seas early today while roulette wheel clicked and revelry was at its height caused federal authorities to detain 200 men and women guests, many clad in evening clothes, on the notorious vessel, Johanna Smith.

Norman Lorraine, 22, of Baltimore, Md., a seaman, was found fatally shot on the upper deck, the third recent murder on gambling ships here, and the second on the Johanna Smith.

Society Asks Council For Police Help

$200 Sum Sought By Pumpkin Show To Finance Special Police.

UP TO COMMITTEE

Buchanan, Shaner Appear Before 'Dads.'

The finance committee of council, Thursday, was considering the request of the Pumpkin Show society that $200 be appropriated to pay special police officers to be called during the big show. The request was made by D. L. Buchanan, a director, who with Lee T. Shaner, another director, comprised a committee from the society.

The finance committee was voted power to act.

Mr. Buchanan said that since merchants are not being solicited for contributions this year the show society will need all funds available. "It would be a good gesture on the part of council if it would make the requested appropriation," Mr. Buchanan declared.

Councilman Clark Will stated that in the last few years council has paid claims amounting to about $700 arising from injuries suffered by visitors during the Pumpkin Show and that the society had agreed to provide police if the city would pay such claims. He said, however, that if the money was available he would be willing to vote the money for the special police.

Members of the finance committee are E. S. Neuding, chairman; Mr. Will and C. O. Leist.

HAMMEL FILES VOTE PETITION

359 Local Names on Petition Seeking Municipal Plant Construction.

A petition asking a vote on whether or not Circleville should construct a combination municipal electric-water plant has been filed with City Auditor Lillian Young by L. C. Hammel, N. G. Spangler and W. W. Robinson, its sponsors.

Mr. Hammel announced Thursday that the petition bears 359 names. Three hundred and fifty-three were believed needed to make the petition legal. The matter will not have to go through council, Mr. Hammel declared, but will be certified by the city auditor to the board of elections. He said the office of George Myers, secretary of state, has informed him that he has until Sept. 29 to have the petition in the hands of the board of elections to insure its being placed on the ballot for a vote on Nov. 7.

The 353 number, necessary to make the petition legal, was reached by adding the number of votes cast for governor in the city at the last election. The number cast for Governor George White and for David S. Ingalls, defeated Republican, were added and found to total 3530.

If the majority of Circleville voters cast their ballots for construction of a municipal plant steps to bring about a bond issue would be next on the program.

WILEY POST HURT

QUINCY, Ill., Sept. 21.—Wiley Post, one of America's ace flyers, was believed to be seriously injured here today when his plane cracked up while he was attempting to take off from the flying field.

Post was rushed to St. Mary's hospital. Extent of his injuries could not be immediately ascertained, however, as hospital attendances refused to give out any information.

STEEL MAGNATE DIES WEDNESDAY

YOUNGSTOWN, Sept. 21.—Ending a career wrought in the steel industry, death today had claimed James A. Campbell, 79-year-old chairman of the Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co.

Campbell died at his home here last night, within the shadow of the glowing steel mill furnaces, from a heart attack.

Well known in the industry, Campbell figured prominently several years ago in the attempted merger of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation and the Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co.

MERRELL IRE 'DADS,' LETTER BRINGS ACTION

Highway Director Fails to Answer Request for Hearing on Roads

COUNCIL ANGERED

Seek Bohnert Aid in Arranging Confab

Indignant over failure of O. W. 'Whitely' Merrell, state highway director, to answer a communication from A. J. 'Bert' Lyle, service director, asking an interview in regards to possible steps for highway improvements here, council Wednesday evening, went on record to seek the assistance of Nathan Bohnert, the county's representative in the general assembly, in obtaining an interview with Mr. Merrell.

Mr. Lyle wrote the highway chief a week ago and has received no reply.

LETTER WRITTEN

The text of Mr. Lyle's letter follows: A committee representing the county commissioners and city council with our engineer would like to know what date it would be convenient to you for them to have an audience with you of about 15 or 20 minutes in regards to projects they have in mind on state routes and regarding government loans.

Realizing you are a very busy man and not wanting to take up any more of your time than possible, I thought it would be well to have a date set in advance.

Council believes that some of 100 per cent can be obtained for re-construction of W. Washington road and E. Main-st. from the Norfolk & Western road to the Adelphi-pk. corporation to the Norfolk & Western tracks is also under consideration.

COUNCIL TO AID FIRE-HOUSE, SMITH

Plan To Spend $500 In Repairs At Engine-house; Boost Smith's Pay.

A real 'going-over' for the fire department and a boost in the salary of Raymond H. Smith, night desk sergeant of the police department, loaned today after the safety committee of council, T. M. Barnes, chairman, recommended that requests of Safety Director J. W. Crist be carried out.

Mr. Barnes recommended that $500 be appropriated for work at the fire department with repairs to be made, new bedding to be purchased, papering to be done and screens to be obtained. Such work has not been done at the fire department for many years. Living conditions there have been poor, to say the least.

Council approved Mr. Barnes' report and instructions were given Paul E. Adkins, solicitor, to draw an ordinance to appropriate the money.

Smith's salary may be doubled by council. Mr. Crist recommended two weeks ago that his pay be boosted to equal that of police officers. He told council that Smith is as efficient as any man on the force and has been doing work required of him. He has been receiving only $50 a month.

Mr. Barnes recommended the request of the director be followed and Mr. Marion moved that an ordinance to change the salary be prepared.

MRS. JENKINS FREE

Mrs. Nina Jenkins, who declared several weeks ago that she would rather go to jail than return to her husband and two minor children after abandoning them, was released from the county jail Wednesday afternoon after serving a jail sentence.

She declared upon release that she does not intend to return home.

Tickets on Sale For Friday Tilt

Local School Gets Good Percentage if Tickets Are Bought Here; Lancaster Team Built Around Beach and Cann With Morris to Prove Bulwark of Forward Wall; Normie Coleman Big Question Mark In Local Backfield.

Tickets were put on sale here today for the opening high school football game at Lancaster, Friday night. The contest starts at 8 p. m. on North field where the event has been played the last two years.

From past showings the local team should put up a good game against the Lancasterites but it must be observed Circleville's team is more an unknown quantity this year than ever before. Coach Pete Herberholz has a problem in his line which would make many of the players a speck.

Bill Robinson and Lee Cook are the only veterans in the line and Cook played part of last season in the backfield.

Normie Coleman, fleet colored youth, is being groomed to do a lot of ball carrying with Gaines.

Hill, Speakman and Fred Smith in there to block. All three other backs will get their share of ball-toting, also.

TICKET PRICES

Tickets are being sold to adults for 35 cents, to students for 20 cents and to grade children for a dime. The local high school received 50 per cent of money secured from tickets sold in this city; if they are sold in Lancaster the fee is only 25 per cent, thus school officials urge that tickets be purchased here to help the high school association.

The high school band with Miss Jane Littleton acting as drum major for the first time, although she had considerable experience with the junior organization, will accompany the team. Players will travel in private cars to defray expenses.

Instead of Stan-on Jones officiating as was announced Monday, Art Jones, Columbus North high coach, will officiate. Stoneham will also be an official.

TWO REGULARS BACK

Nine of last year's letter-men form the nucleus of the Lancaster team but only two of the nine were regulars. They are Jack Beach, a member of last year's backfield, who this year is playing offensive end and defensive half-back, and Bill Cann, shifty line-man.

Other lettermen include Tiny Morris, who more resembles a mountain than a youth; Pairian, blackfield man with great possibilities, according to Lancaster newspapers; Blosser, another back; Cole, a lineman; Bowers, another heavy lineman, and Red Moore who saw service at end last year.

Coach Wilson, of Lancaster, has declined to announce his starting lineup having been working with several different combinations.

GIANT GRIDDERS TROUNCE PIRATES

Newman, Russell, Strong Lead Attack Against Pittsburgh In 23-2 Game.

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 21.—A smashing offensive gave the New York Giants a 23-to-2 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates in the local team's debut in the National Professional league here last night. The game drew an attendance of 25,000.

Ken Strong, Harry Newman and Reb Russell, former college stars, were the big three in the Giants' attack. The Pirates showed conclusively the lack of outstanding paid-to-play gridders.

Score by periods:
Giants, 0 7 0 16—23.

JAKE WORTHY IS WINNER FOR SHORT

Harry Short, former Circleville horseman, won another county fair purse at Newark, Wednesday, when Jake Worthy finished one-four in the 211 pace. The purse was $200.

Jean Stratton, rated highly on Ohio tracks this year, finished second with 2-2-1 with Peter Arlon third. Lindy Mac fourth and Lady Mack fifth.

Cheer driven by Rickabaugh won the 2:18 trot and Margaret Henley, driven by Roush in the three-year-old pace, Home Talent Stake, won other races.

MINNESOTA STAR

Myron Ubl, star half-back, around whom Coach Bierman plans to build the University of Minnesota football team. Last year an injury to Ubl's back kept him out of the game and almost cost his life.

SEAT SALE OPENS TODAY FOR SERIES

COLUMBUS, Sept. 21.—With the Columbus Red Birds officially crowned champions of the American Association after a bitter fight with Minneapolis in the A. A. play-off, officials of the Columbus Baseball club announced today that tickets for the Little World's Series will be placed on sale Thursday morning at the downtown ticket office in the Deshler-Wallick hotel.

The price scale for the Little World's Series as set by the president of the International League, the president of the American Association and Judge W. G. Brennan, president of the National Baseball Commission is as follows: bleacher seats 75c; grandstand general admission, $1.10; reserved seats, $1.50; and box seats, $1.75. All of these prices include both the State and Federal tax.

SENATORS CAN CLINCH TITLE

Need Single Victory With Eight Games Remaining On Schedule.

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—Those New York Yankees, like a bride sending hubby off to work, insist on lingering just a little longer. They hate to kiss that 1933 American league pennant goodbye forever.

But even though the disappointed New Yorkers hung on tooth and toe-nail yesterday by beating Chicago's disappointing White Sox again, while Washington was taking one from the St. Louis Browns, the thing can't continue much longer.

A single decimal point is all that keeps the Yankees from knowing they can't win out and a single game is all the Senators need to insure them the bunting. So the Nats can win their own race by beating the St. Louis Browns again today or they can continue the suspense by waiting until the idle Yanks play and ultimately drop a contest.

New York is seven and a half games behind and would have to win all of their remaining eight games, while Washington lost all of its remaining seven games, to upset the Senators.

Al Crowder put the Nats within a whisker of the title by turning back St. Louis 13 to 5. He refused to budge an inch after the Browns took five hits, Washington putting the affair in the ice box in the third inning with a hitting orgy that sent over seven runs.

A Plea for Studied Action

By IRVIN S. COBB

TWO ball teams, made up of inmates of San Quentin in California, played a game for the prison championship. One team was composed of negroes, the other of white men.

In the seventh inning, with the score a tie, the pitcher for the colored team, a long-term man, grew nervous under the strain. He wound up too quickly. In his haste he made wild pitches. He gave the opposing batters their bases on balls.

Over on the side lines a negro rooster raised his voice in steady words to the champion of his race:

"Tek' yo' time, black boy," he clariomed. "Tek' yo' time! You ain't needin' to be in no hurry. You got a plenty time to win dis game in—you got nineteen years!"

OHIO SENATE

four amendments, all of which were defeated. He also proposed that the vote be delayed until today "on account of the lateness of the hour." This also was beaten.

With 17 votes required, only 16 could be mustered at first. After numerous roll-calls, Senator Walter Ruff (R) of Canton, cast the needed vote, and two other senators who had been silent also voted in the affirmative.

"It's a farce, a scandal, a disgrace to the state, that so much protection against taxes has been given to the public utility companies," exclaimed Senator Joseph N. Ackerman (R) of Cleveland, in demanding that the bill be passed.

The Haynes bill would levy a 1 per cent tax against gas and telephone companies' gross receipts in excess of $100,000 annually. One of the defeated Yoder amendments proposed to raise the exemption to $400,000. The bill would be effective from Oct. 1, 1933, to March 31, 1935. The tax would be paid by the companies, who would not be permitted to transfer it to their customers.

A provision allowing the state director of education to close down high schools of 90 pupils or less, and sent them to other high schools, was whacked from the Gunsett bill last night in the House.

AID FOR PUPILS

Principal provisions of the bill by which the state would guarantee an education standard of $39 per elementary pupil and $66 per high school pupil, were allowed to stand. The bill also sets up a maximum of $1,650 a year which may be spent for one-teacher state-aid schools.

Rural members of the House denied that the closing of small high schools would constitute economy and said they objected to the proposed "one-man power" asked for the director of education.

Efforts to obtain Senate concurrence in an amendment striking this power from the bill, and in an amendment denying the county budget commissioner authority in fixing school expenditures, were planned today in the Senate. A concurrence vote failed last night, and a reconsideration was to be asked.

A final blow was dealt the movement to obtain state-aid funds for parochial schools. An amendment to the Gunsett bill providing such aid was ruled out of order by Speaker Frank Cave who declared the question had already been beaten when the Goodwin $4,000,000 parochial school bill was rejected Tuesday.

MANY MINOR BILLS

Numerous minor bills were passed as the two branches cleared the way for adjournment.

The Haynes bill authorizing the department of public works to transfer abandoned canal lands in Licking-co to the state highway department was approved in both houses.

Members of the Senate concurred in amendments to the Avarat kidnapping bill, providing the death penalty for kidnappers when the victim dies, and also to amendments to the Gingham bill exempting newspaper haulers transporting shipments of less than 1,000 pounds from the Donovan law requiring licenses for contract haulers.

URSCHEL RECEIVES THREAT FROM THUG

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Sept. 21.—George "Machine Gun" Kelly today gave the Charles F. Urschel trial a sinister sensation in the form of one of the most viciously worded death threats ever flung from the underworld.

Kelly mailed a letter from Chicago to Urschel threatening not only to kill him but to do away with his family "immediately after the trial."

"You are living on borrowed time now," Kelly said in one part of the missive.

He referred to Urschel as a "sap" and asked:

"Are you ignorant enough to think the government can guard you forever?"

AIDS PROSECUTION

Urschel, the millionaire oil man who was kidnapped and held for the record ransom of $200,000, has been active in aiding the United States government in the prosecution of his abductors.

Twelve persons, one of them a woman, Mrs. R. C. Shannon, are on trial in federal court charged with the Urschel kidnapping. Two others indicted are fugitives—Kelly and his titian-haired wife, Katherine Kelly, Kelly's wife is Mrs. Shannon's daughter.

Among the defendants are two of the most notorious "bad men" in the country—Harvey J. Bailey and Albert Bates.

Bates, according to Urschel and other witnesses who testified at the trial, was the man who accompanied "Machine Gun" Kelly to the Urschel home in Oklahoma City on the night of July 22 last when the oil man was "snatched."

Kelly witnesses said in identifying him from a photograph, carried a machine gun on that occasion.

Kelly's death threat letter was addressed to "Ignorant Charles" and proceeded in this vein:

"Just a few lines to let you know that I am getting my plans laid to destroy your so-called mansion, and you and your family immediately after this trial. And, young fellow, I guess you've begun to realize your serious mis-

Questions and Answers

Why is vinegar added to fat in frying doughnuts? When should it be added, if used?

Vinegar sometimes is added to fat for frying doughnuts to prevent them having a fatty taste. It should be added at the moment the fat is put over the fire. As soon as the fat melts, if it is not already a liquid, it will sink to the bottom. As the fat grows hot the vinegar, volatilized at a lower temperature, will rise through it and by its interpenetration will annul the fatty flavor. It is highly dangerous to add any cold liquid to a hot fat and an explosion is the likely outcome.

How can coffee flavoring be added to ice creams or frozen desserts?

Instead of using strong coffee to flavor your custards, frozen desserts and the like, it is better to use 5 or 6 level tablespoons of finely-ground, dry coffee in the milk. This method of adding the coffee gives a deliciously distinct coffee taste instead of the mild suggestion of flavor obtained in adding a cup or so of strong coffee infusion. The grounds must be strained from the milk, of course, but this can be done before adding the thickening to the milk. The same method is effective for coffee custards, blancmange, coffee tapioca and frostings that have any liquid content.

Why do cakes stick to the pans, even when the pans are greased and dusted with flour?

Cake pans do not need to be washed with soap and water to clean them after using. If the pans are washed the tendency is for cakes to stick. If you prefer greasing and dusting with flour to lining the pan with oiled paper, use soft paper napkins to remove crumbs from the cake pan as soon as the cake is removed. The tin still will be hot and while it is hot the moist crumbs will roll out more easily. The pan will become tempered after using it several times in this manner, and cakes will not stick, even though greasing has been omitted.

Chocolate Plum Cake

1/2 C. shortening 1/2 tsp. soda
1/2 C. sugar 4 Tbsp. cocoa
2 beaten egg yolks 1 tsp. baking powder
1/2 C. milk 1/2 C. chopped walnuts
1 C. vanilla 2 cups white sugar
1/2 tsp. salt 1/2 C. cooked prunes

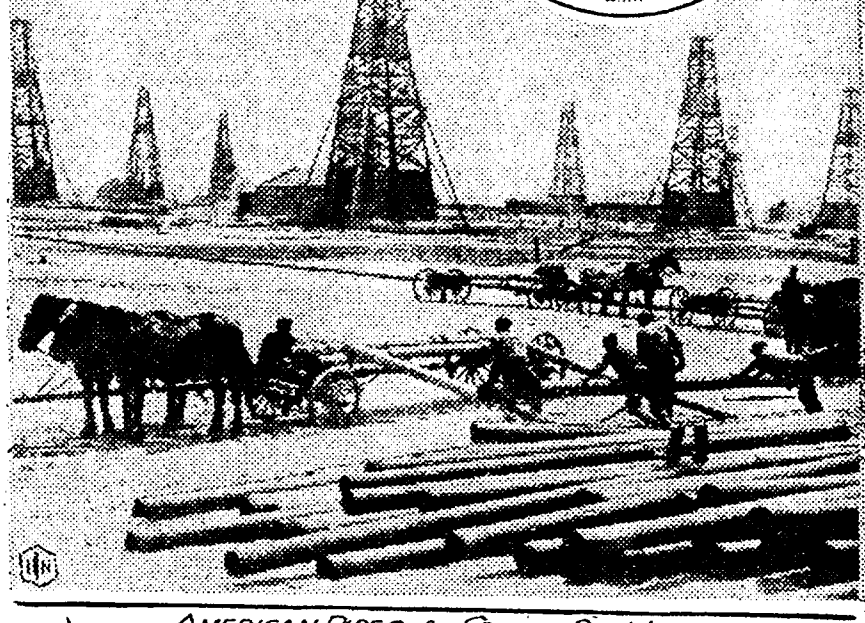

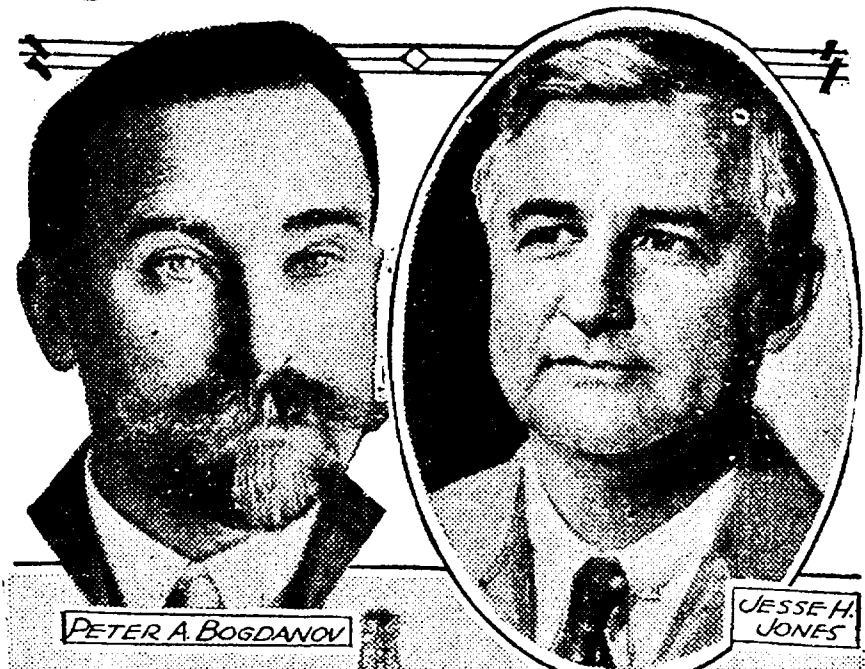

Cream shortening and sugar until light and fluffy. Add egg yolks and a small amount of the dry ingredients. Sift together flour, salt, soda, cocoa and baking powder. Add milk and dry ingredients until all are included. Fold in the nuts, the beaten egg whites and the prunes. Pour into two greased layer tins and bake 25 to 30 minutes at 350 degrees. Put layers together with a boiled frosting.

Boiled Frosting

2 C. sugar 4 egg whites beaten
1 C. boiling water until stiff
1 tsp. corn syrup 1 tsp. vanilla

Cook sugar water and corn syrup together, stirring until dissolved. When the syrup reaches 244 degrees pour slowly in a thin stream over egg whites, beating continuously until cold enough to pile up thick on the cake.

Negotiate R. F. C. Loan for Soviet

Following negotiations between Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, and Peter A. Bogdanov, chairman of the board of Amtorg, American trading agency owned by Soviet Russia, it is believed a big financial deal, involving a loan of from $50,000,000 to $75,000,000 to the Soviet, is on the way to being consummated. Terms of the loan are that the money is to be spent in the United States for the purchase of American goods, wheat, copper, cotton, aluminum and machinery. The projected deal is remarkable inasmuch as the United States does not officially recognize the Soviet. However, with the closer relationship bound to result from such business dealings, observers say, it is only a matter of time until diplomatic relations are resumed between the two countries.

Splitting an atom is like splitting hairs, only more so.

"ON BORROWED TIME"

"I gave you credit for more sense than that, and figured you thought too much of your family to jeopardize them as you have, but if you don't look out for them, why should we? I dislike hurting the innocent, but I told you exactly what would happen, and you can bet $200,000 more everything I said will be true. You are living on borrowed time now."

"You know that the Shannon family are victims of circumstances the same as you was."

"You don't seem to mind prosecuting the innocent, neither will I have any conscience qualms over brutally murdering your family."

"The Shannons have put the heat on, that I don't desire to see them prosecuted as they are innocent and I have a much better method of settling with them. As far as the guilty being punished, you would probably have lived the rest of your life in peace had you tried only the guilty, but if the Shannons are convicted, look out, and God help you, for he is the only one that will be able to do you any good."

An Appeal to the Senses

By IRVIN S. COBB

THE editor of a New York evening newspaper has a little niece who, on her sixth birthday, received as presents a wrist-watch and a large bottle of perfumery. Having strapped on the watch, and cop-

ously scented herself, the youngster spent the entire day proudly parading the apartment, directing the attention of all and sundry to her new possessions. Eventually she became somewhat of a bore. For the evening some friends of her parents were coming in.

"Honey," said her mother, "I can understand why you should be proud of your birthday gifts but grown people are not interested in such things. You may come to dinner tonight on condition that you do not mention your wrist-watch or your bottle of perfumery."

The little one promised. At the table she sat, saying not a word, but from time to time sniffing audibly, and at frequent intervals raising her left wrist to her ear to catch the sound of the ticking. These tactics failed to attract attention on the part of the guests. Toward the end of the meal, in a lull in the conversation, little Miss Helen spoke:

"Listen, everybody," she said, "if anybody hears anything or smells anything sweet, it's me."

ESCAPE-PROOF CELL

DENVER — An "escape-proof" cell, especially designed for criminals of the Harvey Bailey type, was recently constructed within the Denver county jail. The cell is built of concrete with a double set of bars over the window and door. A steel cage is then set inside the cell, with a runway completely around the cage inside the cell. A heavy steel door was fixed in the entrance to the cage, and another in the entrance to the cell.

Nabbing the Fugitive

FUGITIVES from justice can find little refuge in the United States since the Committee on Uniform Crime Records of the International Associations of Chiefs of Police began its work three years ago, work now being carried on by the bureau of investigation of the United States Department of Justice.

Once he has been caught, "mugshot" and fingerprinted the criminal's life is not over. No matter where he may go his crimes will find him out sooner or later. Every move he makes is under the watchful eye of the police, an eye that has been multiplied thousands of times by the modern method of keeping and broadcasting criminal records.

Three years ago the organized police chiefs started out with 399 cooperating law-enforcing agencies and no central rogues' gallery. Today they have the cooperation of 600 agencies in 1,546 cities and towns and have on file in a central office 3,870,810 fingerprint records of criminals and suspects.

Fingerprint records made it possible to take 346 fugitives from justice into custody last month and that was no unusual month. Fingerprint records provided the government with leads on 2,363 suspects when the war on kidnapers was declared.

Society is planning to cut the dividends it has been paying to the unsocial ever since men began to seek the society of his fellows.

Byrd's Second Trip

THAT Admiral Byrd, planning a second trip into the Arctic, intends to make a searching exploration of that little known area, is indicated by some of the equipment he will take with him.

In addition to an airplane, he will carry motor sleds, tractors and 150 dogs. He expects to do "firsts" as a much flying this time as before," he said in announcing the early start of his expedition.

It is to be expected that some interesting discoveries will be made and a great deal of scientific data collected.

The expedition is made possible by private contributions. Its backers are performing a valuable public service, the extent of which can not yet be known. Admiral Byrd, who ended a two-years' stay in the Antarctic about four years ago, is a veteran explorer, and the expedition under his direction will be in capable hands.

In Cuba a surgeon has succeeded the "butcher" as president. Now they can report political executions as professional mistakes.

The government wants to know how to collect a billion in back taxes. Science would like to know how to squeeze blood from a stone.

Somebody wants to know how they distinguish a hurricane from a revolution in Cuba. If the old president runs for the palace it is a hurricane.

FESS ASKS PUBLIC TO SUPPORT N. R. A.

SPRINGFIELD, Sept. 21.—Appeal for public support of President Roosevelt's national recovery program had been issued here today by United States Senator Simon D. Fess of Yellow Springs, Ohio.

Addressing Kiwanians here, Senator Fess declared that since the public had demanded the president be given unlimited power, "it is essential that full cooperation be given and every effort expanded to make the recovery program a success."

Renouncing talk that failure of the recovery program would result in a revolution, Senator Fess declared that the plan should be regarded only as an emergency act-up.

CHAPTER XXXVII

"I came here because my son wants to marry your niece," Lyla Barstow went on determinedly, "and I came to ask you a question you have not answered yet—Evvie stood up, brushed imaginary crumbs from her stiff white shirtwaist. 'I didn't consider it necessary to answer an anonymous letter,' she said, fixing the younger woman with her beady black eyes, 'but since you insist, I do. My niece brought us trouble. She knew no soldiers, sailors, nor traveling salesmen. She knew no boys at all, nor men. Your letter is a lie.'"

"But your sister—"

"My sister, I regret to say, is a fool. She's still airing a family skeleton—twenty-five years old. Peter Hastings, Judge Hastings' son. There's our skeleton. My sister Veronica's escapade. Secret wedding. Suicide. Nice story. Want to hear some more about it before you let your son marry a Van Fleet?"

Mrs. Barstow thought she could hear the little bent sister still crying as she went down the stairs, but perhaps it was only the eucalyptus trees whispering in the wind.

Evvie watched her go, still grinning, showing all her beautiful blue-white store teeth. "I almost wish I'd let Babe talk. Now we're going to have that in the family—Joan's a nunny. She should have married the first one—"

Congratulations, engagement gifts, a tide of felicity rolled over Joan, almost drowning her in excitement.

"They don't let me even come up for—"

"Well, it's all part of it, I suppose," Curtis said good-humoredly, and though he protested that he never had a moment alone with her, which he didn't, she knew that he liked it. He liked things done decently and in order. Liked to think that Joan's beauty was creating a sensation, and the right people were feting her.

"Mother's set her heart on a church-wedding—did she tell you? At the cathedral, the bishop and everything."

"I've been a bride so often," Joan murmured, grinning. "In Francine's shop," she hastened to add when he didn't smile. He never saw the point in the things that convulsed her with merriment. Dear Curtis—so sensible—so good—

"Let me tell you about the first one, any more, Joan. That's all behind us. Let's just look ahead—"

"Yes—just look ahead—"

Her eyes filled with tears. She took his hand and held it tenderly against her cheek—always look ahead—

"Are you happy?" Maisie asked, looking at the big, square diamond Curtis had put on the third finger of her left hand.

"Because I have a ring?" Joan asked, smiling at it. A lovely ring. A diamond on tiny finger—twinkling leaves, twining round her finger—

"Yes—that and everything—"

But Joan only laughed. "Of course. At least I think I am, they haven't given me time to really stop and think about it. Something every moment, Curtis wants me to give up my work now, but I want to keep it a little longer—"

"It does seem too much, dearie, working all day, and going out every night. Seems to me some times you look kind of feverish—"

"Oh, no, Maisie. Just happy and rushed. And I love to be rushed, you know I do."

"Yes, I know," Maisie went away half satisfied. She knew that Joan's pillow was often wet in the morning. Knew that she lay awake in the darkness crying—what for? For that other one? Or why wouldn't the girl be thankful for what she had, what did she want, the moon?

Dinner parties, dances, theatre parties. Gay, sparkling affairs to which the season's debutantes came. Everyone was charming to her—Mrs. Barstow saw to that. Joan never knew the time and statesmanship that went into launching Curtis's bride-to-be in San Francisco society.

But Curtis knew and rejoiced.

"Happy, dear?"

Someone was always asking her if she was happy, and now it was Curtis, looking at her with kind, light brown eyes, full of love, full of devotion and something else—

yearning—that sent the blood to racing sickly in her heart, and made the little fugitive memories come out of their secret hiding places—

"What?" She raised her shamed head, stared at him incredulously. "A sailor? Why, Curtis—I—"

"Didn't I tell you it was crazy? Yes, a sailor from Goat Island—"

"A sailor," she echoed. Oh the blessed relief of it. Not being found out. Safe. "A sailor!" She was laughing now, laughing with relief and helplessness, high shrieks of laughter that tore at her heart, and hurt—way down deep inside. "Oh, you don't know how funny that is—"

"If you knew my aunts—I'd have to swim to Goat Island—they'd never have let anyone on the premises—"

"Would you have cared... if it were true?" she asked very low, so low that he could hardly hear the question.

"Johnnie!" He strained her to him, smoothing her hair, soothing her. "You mustn't have morbid thoughts like that. I want you to be always sunny and laughing, always my own merry Joan—"

"Of course, I'm listening."

"Joan, I didn't tell you, but I got the craziest letter about a week ago. At first I wasn't going to say any—"

Marian Martin Patterns

Complete, Diagrammed Marian Martin Sew Chart Included
 PATTERN 9780

This perky model will be adored by the Junior Miss. The broad shoulder line achieved with the clever loops is important this season—they can be omitted if you wish. A fetching collar of contrast that ripples and flatters even the prettiest face will catch your eye. Skirt pleats lend delightful animation. One smart idea is to combine a new crepe with cotton or silk.

Pattern 9780 may be ordered only in sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20.

Size 16 requires 3 3/4 yards 39 inch fabric and 1/2 yard contrasting.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS in coins or stamps (coin preferred) for each MARIAN MARTIN pattern. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, the STYLE NUMBER and SIZE of each pattern ordered.

Study the new mode at its best with the MARIAN MARTIN PATTERN BOOK FOR FALL AND WINTER. All the new style highlights—shoulders, collars, sleeves, skirts—are cleverly worked out in their easiest-to-make form. Clothes for juniors and kiddies, reflecting new trends, and Marian Martin's famous slenderizing models are shown. Lingerie and gift patterns, too. This book will guide you to a distinctive wardrobe at little effort and small cost.

Delay Is Dangerous In Tuberculosis of Kidney

Dr. Copeland Lists the Symptoms of This Disease and Urges Early Treatment

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
 United States senator from New York
 Former Commissioner of Health,
 New York City

ALARM AND ANXIETY about disease are usually quite unnecessary. But to be told you have tuberculosis of the kidney is certain to cause a shock. It is a discouraging bit of news.

The sufferer is sure to believe he has an incurable disease and that he will be the victim of a sudden and early death. But, as a matter of fact, early recognition of tuberculosis of the kidney means that the sufferer will not be the victim of such a fate. When it is definitely known that the kidney is diseased, infected from the germs of tuberculosis, the diseased organ can be removed by a comparatively simple operation.

Don't Ignore Symptoms

It is only when tuberculosis of the kidney is not suspected and the disease is allowed to exist for some time that the outcome is unfavorable. In such instances, the general health of the patient suffers and it is probable that the other kidney may become involved. Tuberculosis of both kidneys is indeed a serious experience.

How can we guard against this danger?

Many minor disturbances of the kidney are falsely referred to as "lumbago" or "backache", and too often neglected. Vague and often significant pain of the kidney may be an early sign of tuberculosis of the kidney.

This is especially true when there is tuberculosis in the family or a story of long continued ill health. The presence of blood in the urine should always arouse suspicion of this trouble. Burning and discomfort on urination; frequent urination; and cloudy urine are other signs that must never be overlooked. A problem that arises in tuberculosis of the kidney is the question of when the operation should be performed. The patient often delays matters in the hope that the condition may clear itself. Unfortunately this is a false and unfounded hope.

Not a Fatal Disease Now

All authorities agree that once the kidney is involved and definite signs of tuberculosis infection are present, surgery must be resorted to as soon as possible. Delay is dangerous.

With the perfection of modern instruments, special apparatus and the modern X-ray machine, it is now possible to detect tuberculosis of the kidney in its early stages. If you suffer from pain or discomfort of the kidneys, regardless of how mild it may seem to you, it is a good plan to consult with your physician. Do not assume that the pain is due to a cold but allow your physician to determine certain examinations and X-ray pictures that will reveal the truth.

I am glad to say that a study of recent statistics shows that tuberculosis of the kidney need no longer be regarded as a fatal disease. As a result of early and prompt operation, the average span of life of the sufferer has been increased to such an extent that it is often greater than that of the supposedly healthy person.

Bear in mind that removal of one kidney does not interfere with the function of the opposite kidney. The body is able to maintain its normal activities in spite of surgery.

Answers to Health Queries

A Steady Reader. Q.—What do you advise for fallen arches?

A.—Properly fitted shoes and arch supports should bring about results under such circumstances. Consult an orthopedist for examination and advice.

G. W. J. Q.—My husband is 28 years of age. For several years he has been troubled by a pounding in his head. His heart also seems to beat hard and lately he has had ringing in the ears. He does not seem sick otherwise. What would you advise? Could these symptoms be due to high blood pressure in view of the fact that he is so young?

A.—It would be well to have his blood pressure tested. This will help to fix the cause of the trouble. For further particulars send a self-addressed, stamped
